Many Brides Are Perjurers.

Perjury is declared to be quite common among women applying for a marriage license. According to the license clerk's estimate one out of every five brides-to-be purposely gives the wrong name or address.

A Wish

"I HAVE TAKEN Cardui for run-down, worn-out condition, nervousness and sleeplessness, and I was weak too," says Mrs. Silvie Estes, of Jennings, Okla. "Cardui did me just lots of good—so much that I gave it to my daughter. She complained of a soreness in her sides and back. She took three bottles of Cardui and her condition was much better.

"We have lived here, near Jennings, for 26 years, and now we have our own home in town. I have had to work pretty hard, as this country wasn't built up, and it made it hard on us.

"I WISH I could tell weak women of Cardui—the medicine that helped give me the strength to go on and do my work." This card fulfils her wish.

RECORD AIR TRIP COAST TO COAST

Big Army Monoplane T-2 Piloted by Lieuts. Macready and Kelly, Blazes 2,700-Mile Trail.

26 HOURS AND 50 MINUTES

Voltage Regulator Breaks Down at Start, but Is Repaired en Route.

Craft Swoops In and Out of Canyons in Rockies.

San Diego, Cal.—The world's long distance non-stop flying record was smashed when the giant army monoplane T-2 descended at Rockwell Field, San Diego, after traversing the entire distance from New York in one single flight.

The distance of approximately 2,060 miles as the crow flies was covered in 26 hours, 50 minutes and 38 seconds actual flying time, at an average speed of approximately 109 miles an hour.

For years aeronautical engineers have dreamed of a sustained flight across the continental United States. Lieutenants John A. Macready and Oakley G. Kelly, flying the T-3, accomplished the feat.

They had lunch at Roosevelt Field, Hempstead, N. Y., took the air at 12.26.18 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, and landed here at Rockwell Field at 12.26.54 p. m. Pacific Time, in time for the regular noonday meal.

The T-2 is the plane which has twice broken world records for remaining afloat, and it also holds the world's lifting record for a single-motored airplane. It carries over 700 gallons of gasoline.

Lieutenant Macready said:

"We never doubted for a moment that we would make the flight a success. Our eastward effort of last winter in the same plane, you know, was halted because of radiator trouble after we had covered four-fifths of the distance. We felt certain of making the coast-to-coast journey this time without mishap. We were fortunate, of course, in having bright moonlight all of the last night and sunshine and gentle breezes throughout today."

Lieutenant Kelly said over his coffee at luncheon:

"The performance of our Liberty motor was perfect in every respect. From the time it lifted our overloaded plane from Roosevelt Field it throbbed away at racing speed hour after hour with never a falter until we came to earth today.

"At all times we felt entire confidence in the motor. And our gas, water and oil supply would have enabled us to continue on for—"

But here a smiling but warning gesture from Major H. H. Arnold, commandant of Rockwell Field, stopped the birdman's story. It is understood the air service is not yet ready to disclose the real limit of power they have built in the T-2.

Trouble was experienced in only one respect, it was said. A minor difficulty developed in the battery regulator, but quick work righted the defect and the flight continued on. Captain R. G. Ervin, adjutant to Oakfield commander, said:

"Lieutenant Kelly told me the controls operated with amazing perfection. Certainly the army air service, especially General Patrick and the other chiefs at Washington, who have done so much toward improving the design and making changes for the better in almost every part of our planes since the war, are to be congratulated."

Lieutenants Kelly and Macready received a basketful of congratulatory telegrams from personages throughout the country.

The two aviators achieved much fame and some fortune from their feat. They will be enriched to the extent of at least $5,000.

Both airmen will remain on duty at Rockwell Field until next spring probably, when they will go east to prepare for their flight around the globe.

From a standpoint of national defense, it says, a non-stop transcontinental air voyage indicates the feasibility of transporting men, messages, equipment or any other vital necessity, from one coast to the other in an incredibly short time.

Witty Phrase (Not Stuck.

The old phrase, "wide-awake hats," originated in the witty saying of some one who called the fat hats by the name because they never had "a sap."

Old "Ticket-of-Leave" system.

The "Ticket-of-Leave" was a written permit first granted by the English government in 1854, whereby a penal convict was given his liberty before the expiration of his term, as a reward for good conduct while in prison. He was obliged, however, to report to the police at stated times until his sentence expired, and if a fresh crime was committed by him during that period, his ticket-of-leave was immediately recalled.

In 1861-1863, the system proved to be a failure, owing to the many crimes committed by the prisoners thus set at liberty, and the practice was virtually abolished by the penal servitude act of 1864.

For Commissioner of Revenue

To my friends and the voters of Appomattox County:

I am glad to state that my health is improving and I hope as soon as the weather opens to be able to attend to the duties of my office as usual. I have engaged the services of Mr. James H. O'Brien, R. F. D. 3, Appomattox, Va., as my Deputy, who will assist me in my work, and I assure you, it will be done promptly and efficiently.

To set at rest the question of my candidacy, I wish to state here and now that I am a candidate to succeed myself as Commissioner of the Revenue, subject to the Democratic Primary to be held next August. While I may not be able to see and talk with you at your homes this Spring, as formerly, I trust to have that same friendly support you have heretofore given me which I have always appreciated more than I can tell you.

GREAT DAY AMONG SEMINOLES

Florida Indians Made Holiday of Occasion When Whole Tribe Turned Out to Shoot Fish.

In the old days before statehood, fishing was a great holiday with the Seminoles in Florida. A chief fisherman was selected. He appointed the various committees looking towards the fishing, some to gather the "devil's shoestring," some to do the shooting and some to haul the root after it was tied in bundles.

The "devil's shoestring" grew in abundance in the sand hills of Seminole county. The Seminoles dug down deep into the sand until they could get a firm hold on the root and then pulled until it came forth. These roots were then tied into bundles of 12 or more, according to the size of the water to be fished, or log was then erected in the pool and the shoestring beaten with little mallets. It gave off a milky kind of coloring into the water and when the bad thoroughly permeated the stream, the fish became intoxicated and would jump out of the water or swim along on their sides.

The shooters would then begin their work with the bow and arrow, and as the larger fish came to the surface they would shoot them with arrows and the younger Indians would pick them out of the stream.

When Change Befriends.

Inventors have gone a long way towards producing to order whatever man and his industries require. But invention is not yet an exact science and never is likely to be. Artisans and experimenters continue to stumble upon useful discoveries. So with Roentgen of X-ray fame. While working over his vacuum tubes he was unexpectedly called out of the room. He left a bulb still glowing on the book he had been reading, and in the book was a large, antique key used as a bookmark, while beneath this volume there happened to be a photographic plateholder he had ready for an outing that afternoon. When developing some plates later, there upon one of them he found the shadow of the key. He sought an explanation of the curious phenomenon by replacing the "properties" and energizing the tube as before. There was the shadow again on the plate. The X-ray was found.

Queen Ants and Bees.

It has been contended that the queen ant has not had justice done to her by naturalists. As compared with the famous queen bee, she is regarded by some as a far more admirable creature. In fact, they are, in many respects, diametrical opposites. The queen bee is a degenerate creature, unable to nourish either herself or her young, to visit flowers, to build combs, or to store food with honey. With the queen ant quite the reverse is true. She is a perfect example and embodiment of her species and the worker ants softer from incomplete and retarded development. The queen ant is a very industrious and intelligent worker and it is pointed out that she forms an exceedingly interesting subject for study, and has not hitherto been well understood.

IN PLACE OF ENCHANTMENT

That evening was the evening of the full moon. The garden was an enchanted place where all the flowers seemed white. The lilies, the daphne, the orange blossom, the white stocks, the white pinks, the white roses—you could see these as plainly as in the daytime; but the colored flowers existed only as fragrance.

The three younger women sat on the low wall at the end of the top garden after dinner. Rose a little apart from the others, and watched the enormous moon moving slowly over the place where Shelley had lived . . . just a hundred years before. She sequivered along the path of the moon. The stars winked and trembled. The mountains were misty blue outlines, with little clusters of lights shining through from little clusters of homes. In the gardens the plants stood quite still, straight and unstirred by the smallest puffs of air.—From "The Enchanted Knoll."

How to Get Used to Noises.

"What I like about the neighborhood," insisted the enthusiastic resident of Brooklyn Heights, "is the quiet. No trolleys, no elevated roar, no heavy trucks thundering through our streets, no sound from the subway. Why, I think—"

"Just a minute," objected his friend from across the ferry. "You live so near the harbor that your back door is virtually a dock, and yet you have the nerve to tell me this yours is a quiet neighborhood. What about the tugs and harbor craft that go tooting up and down the bay all night?"

"Well," admitted the Brooklynite, "I do remember hearing a toot or two the first few nights I lived there. But I never hear 'em now."

"Exactly," said the Manhattan man. "Just what I thought. Used to 'em now. That's just the way the elevated and the two-ton trucks affect me now. Any neighborhood's quiet if you live there long enough."—New York Sun.

End of Cromagnon Age.

About 15,000 years ago the Cromagnon age in Europe came to an abrupt end. There developed a sudden milduess to the climate, accompanied by cool rains. Heavy forests sprang up on what had been the open grass lands of wild reindeer, wild horse and wild bison. Glaciers pulled back up their Alpine slopes; the ice fields that were over what is now Norway and Sweden melted away. The Pleistocene age was over and the modern era was at hand. Cromagnon people all but vanished from western Europe; Cromagnon art was no more. Whether these wild chestnut-haired hunters followed the ice into what is now Russia, or whether they became extinct, no one knows. Certain it is their former lands were deserted when the next race of man appeared.

FOUND ROBBERY LOOT

Raymond Knutson, seven-year-old boy of Minneapolis, Minn., while playing in an alley near his home came upon a bundle of "pretty papers" and, rather than give them away to his playmates, exercised business ingenuity and sold them for five cents. One of the boys who bought the papers, which turned out to be bonds, showed them to a banker of Minneapolis and in less time than it took Raymond to dispose of his papers a score of detectives were on the scene, recovering quickly $19,275 in bonds which Raymond had found and later an additional $14,000 found in a coal pile nearby. The bonds were part of a $53,575 loot stolen from the Bank of Rock at Malden Rock, Wis.

CAN GO LONG WITHOUT FOOD

Healthy Human Being, Drinking Plenty of Water, Will Survive Fast of Forty Days.

Some weeks ago a pig disappeared from its sty on a Cornish farm. Search was made, but the creature could not be found, and was given up for lost. Twenty-four days later a man, passing an old mineshaft heard something below, and made a search. There was poor piggy, some thirty feet down, quite unhurt, and it was speedily got out.

It was thin, but otherwise not a bit the worse, and at once started feeding ravenously, says London Answers.

It takes a long time to starve a fat pig, which can actually lose half its weight before it dies. Most full-grown animals can go without food for a long time, and can lose as much as two-fifths of their weight before succumbing. An exception is the mole, which, when deprived of food, starves to death in less than 48 hours.

A healthy human being can fast 40 days if he or she takes plenty of water. A case is on record of a woman going 48 days without food, during which time her weight decreased from 143 to 90 pounds.

Children cannot fast for long without fatal consequences. They collapse after a fast of three to five days, and lose a quarter of their weight.

Snakes, of course, are the champion fasters. The big python in the zoo recently went more than two years without a meal.

Dad was having one of his economical fits. Bluebelle received a solemn caution to cut down on expenses. Dad pointed out a number of things the government was taxing and declared that more would be added to the list. He said he had even heard it rumored that the authorities were contemplating slapping a tax on bridge games.

The girl was not greatly disturbed. "All right," chirped Bluebelle. "I'm willing to play bridge all day long for my country."

The Surprised Reporter.

Even a reporter can learn something. This one, standing at the counter in a neighboring meat market, heard a woman ask for "six pairs of goose feet." She said they were to be used for making soup for an invalid with stomach trouble. Not even the reporter, who thought he had heard something about everything bad ever heard of that.—Detroit News.
